READY FOR BUSINESS.

The Tobacco Growers' Associ ation Secure two Houses.

(Courier Journal.) The Board of Directors of the Tobacco Grewer' Association and its Executive Committee, which have been in session at the Fifth Avenue Hotel for the past two days, concluded their labors last evening The Executive Committee has been or some time engaged on the work of perfecting plans for the establishment of a new warehouse in Louisville, accordance with the action taken at the late meetings, and, having gone as far as possible, the Board that it is ready to begin business. Gen. John S. Williams presided at

The Association announces that it is ready to receive tobacco to-day and henceforth. It has secured two seventh week of the prevalence of warehouses-the Union Storage warehouse, at the corner of Seventh treet and Magnolia avenue, and the Southern warehouse, which adjoins it. Here sales will begin on January 27. The two houses combined have a capacity of about 20,-000 hogsheads, with a "break" capacity of 800 to a 1,000 hogsheads. Arrangements have been made to use one house for dark tobacco and one for Burley, so that the sales of severity, the winters of 1813 and will be made separately.

The subject of the fees to be char ged received a great deal of attention, and the board decided on a fee of $2 to buyers and $1.50 to sellers, sion. The fees on rejection were placed at the same rate as charged and a charge of 25 cents for storage per month. It was also determined to settle with both buyers and sellers at "out-weight."

The Tobacco Growers Warehouse will not go into the Tobacco Exchange: but proposes to carry on the work of receiving and selling inde pendent of the other houses, or of the Exchange to which the warehousemen and buyers belong.

The Executive Committee will once go to work on the preparation of a circular to the tobacco growers, which will set forth the following er which is prevailing at present. It cts, as stated last evening by Gen. Williams, the other members con curring.

While, however, it is desirable to seave the pork of as fine quality as can secured, experiments made for the arrpose demonstrate that an exclusive et of corn is not the mest economical or the best, either to produce weight or

It is cheaper to produce meat that contains a large proportion of lean with the fat than to fatten a hog to such a condition as to fit it only for the production of lard, and it is a fact that in feeding for lean meat a greater weight of carcass is secured, and at no more expense than in producing an excess of fat. This is explained by reason of the fact that when an animal is given food containing the elements of growth of bone and muscle as well as of fat, the condition of the animal is sustained in a manner to permit of more perfect digestion and aspermit of more perfect digestion and assimilation, and a greater appropriation for the support of the system, of the nutritious elements that are required, and which are more evenly distributed through the body, instead of the semi-diseased condition produced when corn is given as an exclusive diet. Hence the farmer who diminishes the ration of corn, allowing but a portion only, substituting therefor bran, middlings, milk and clover (cut fine and scalded), will have his hogs larger, healthier and of better quality of flesh than from corn.

While granting the advantages of a systematic method of feeding for the best results in producing the heaviest and best pork, the fact that prime lard brings a price that makes it desirable on the part of the farmer to have his hogs very fat is a serious obstacle in the way when the value of lean meat is desired. But, explains The Philadelphia Record, authority for the foregoing, the lean is simply interspersed with the fat, and the greater increase from the variety of food does not diminish the suppy of lard. The farmer will find that on those portions of the carcass from which the lard is of the carcass from which the lard is procured but little difference will be observed, and the hog will be much more valuable as a whole.

The following communication was sent rom Sydney to the bureau of agriculture of that colony by a writer who said that his practical experience of over twenty years in New South Wales had proved that rust in wheat can be prevented by adhering to the following system: The land must be well worked during the hot summer months. After the crop has or quickly got rid of, and the ground at once plowed and well worked up to sow-ing time for the next crop. Plow deep, pulverize well, consolidate by rolling, sow early (from February to middle The seed must be steeped for twelve hours in a strong solution of four-fifths bluestone and one-fifth arsenic and well dried with wood ashes before sowing, and care taken that the seed is not cracked and damaged by machine thrashing. Sow lightly on rich, well worked land. About half a bushel to the acre of good sound seed is ample. He had realized the best results off very rich land by using only a peck to the acra. If manure is required sheep manure is the best; any other must be well rotted and pulverized before using, if for present crop. Avoid plowing in stubble or any rubbish, unless the land is to be fal-lowed for a season. Keep all large stock out of cultivated land, particularly cat-tle. Avoid working land wet. By strictly adhering to the foregoing simple rules rust in wheat can be prevented.

How Many Pigs Can Be Kept to a Cow. Numbered with the queries answered at the Farmers' institute at Canton was the one, "How many pigs can be kept to a cow?" Mr. T. D. Curtis, who answered the question, said:

The old rule was one. It depends somewhat on the cow. I say three, because no farmer can afford to give a pig nothing but milk. The milk is worth nothing but milk. The milk is worth too much as an aid in the digestion of solid foods and in making succulency, which is an important part of a success-ful system of feeding. So I say add enough bran, middlings, linseed meal and corn meal or other meal to the milk, and keep three pigs to a cow, and so make valuable manure and more pork.

The Minnesote Agricultural station reports an interesting case of crossing corn—namely, a yellow flint and a black sweet—that emphasizes the importance of pedigree in plants. Farmers are urged to develop varieties of corn to suit their own soil, locality and requirements. Many experiments have been made upon seeding with rusted, frosted and frozen wheat. Frosted wheat, if well cleaned, is safe to use for seed. Frosted grain that is useless for milling is of no value for seed. The more thoroughly wheat is cleaned the better it is for seed. Tests should be made for gluten and percentage of germination business sowing. Good gluten seems emential for a good crop.

es and Bee Hives. In a paper on bees, read before the Westfield Wisconsin institute, the Rev. James Bain said: "Apiarians have their favorite breed the same as other stock-men, so that with beginners either the favorite breed the same as other stockmen, so that with beginners either the Italian, Cyprian, Syrian, Holy Land or the brown German bee will sufficiently answer, yet I think the Italian is the general favorite. The old box hive must be laid aside with the sickle and hand loom as curiosities of antiquity, and some approved movable frame hive with supers and sections used. My experience with the Simplicity Langstroth and Wisconsin is that either is desirable, although I rather prefer the Wisconsin. Supers for honey in one pound sections are better in the ordinary apiary extracting; many yield greater returns, but require far more time and skill with a less general market. Wintering in a dry cellar with a uniform temperature of 45 degs. is my choice. Take them out when willow and soft maple are in blossom. Put on supers as soon as clover blossoms sppear. Feed weak colonies with honey or sirup made of coffee 'C' sugar. Take honey to market crated in good shape, so that the maker's name is a guarantee that all is as represented."

An English pomologist gives his ideas as follows on the subject of root pruning: The operation should be performed as soon after the crops have been gathered as possible. Open a trench about eighten inches wide at from two to three feet from the stem of the tree, giving more w less distance according to the age and size, and about the same depth, working the soil out pretty well from underneath the roots, with a view of severing any top or perpendicular ones that may be there, and cutting all those in the prescribed space clean away in the operation. If the trees are vigorous and the natural soil in which they are growing is good, it may be returned to fill up the trenches without additions of any kind being made. But, on the other hand, should both trees and soil show signs of sheets of wax of the desired thickness PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON debility, the trenches should be filled in with good, fertile loam, and the improvement in the crops in succeeding years will well pay for the trouble and labor. HINTS TO POULTRYMEN

Poultry Houses Without Causing Draughts on the Fowls. The first objects now with poultry keepers, and particularly with those who ditor of The New York World makes the following suggestions:

Success in poultry keeping depends largely in the selection of a breed that is suited to the special requirements of the locality where it is to be reared. One of the first considerations is the soil. For, About the close of the year many hoge are killed, with perhaps a steer, to fill the meat barrels for the next period; hence it is not out of place to mention some of the recent innovations on the close of the year many varieties that will not thrive where the ground is cold, damp or clayey.

Con we have being depends are making a specialty of egg production, are to secure warmth and afford protection from dampness to their fowls. Dampness and cold draughts of air in poultry houses are the most prolific causes of that dreaded disease, the croup. Warmth is absolutely essential to egg laying; hence only those birds that have comfortable houses to roost in lay during the winter season in rigorous climates. The draughts that find their are making a specialty of egg production, are to secure warmth and afford protection from dampness to their fowls.

Dampness and cold draughts of air in of the tar is in some of The New York World, authority for the foregoing, there is a happy medium be undersold. between the two extremes of draught and no ventilation. One plan is to form a small chamber about midway between the eaves of the apex of the roof with boards, and then place at the end of this chamber a ventilating trap. By this means there will be a current through means there will be a current through the ventilating chamber that will carry off the vitiated air without causing draughts in the house itself. Wright advises for the ordinary poultry house an opening at the highest point of the roof, surmounted by a "lantern" of boards put together in the well known fashion of Venetian blinds.

It must be borne in mind that the air It must be borne in mind that the air of a poultry house does not become foul so quickly in cold as in hot weather, and therefore that much in the way of ventilation may be done by airing the houses during the day, and employing some absorbant, such as dry soil, on the floor. It is wise to sprinkle the floor often with some good disinfectant. Land plaster is a ready absorbent of odors. Another cheap disinfectant is sulphate of copper, diluted in water.

Comb Foundation Prof. A. J. Cook, in his guide to bee

SUCCESSFUL POULTRY RAISING.

Sensible and Plain Suggestions from In a paper read before a Massachusetts farmers' club Mr. A. C. Hawkins, of Lancaster, Mass., recently made a number of useful suggestions, among them

Don't make poultry a side issue if you want to succeed. Many of the most successful poultry raisers are women, they having the patience and tact and intelligent application necessary. Start with small numbers and study the steps, read the poultry papers and magazines and learn what others are doing and how they are doing it.

feet long by 12 wide, divided into two pens, and on each end of the house an open shed 25 feet long by 12 wide. The round should be gravely to avoid ampress; there should be six inches of clean, sandy gravel in the house, and a foot of dry leaves in the shed. A gravelly, well drained soil is best for a poultry house, as dampness causes sickn southeast exposure is best.
